

In the New York Times this week

On September 28, New York Times published this image of the teeny amount of ground gained by each side, while both sides of the war between Russia and Ukraine proclaim eternal imminent victory and condemn compromise or peace as heretical treason. Over a half a million people have thus far been directly killed or wounded as the risk of nuclear disaster increases and the impediments to global cooperation on climate are locked in place.

Meanwhile, at least 50 nations have each just used the meeting of the (undemocratic) United Nations to urge peacemaking in Ukraine. And many dozens of events are planned all over the world to demonstrate the popular demand for peace.

Let's push Congress to help Ukraine win the Peace!
